Statement of Position Retention of TIF Records

Minnesota law requires that public records be retained indefinitely, unless they are disposed of with specific permission from the records disposition panel or in accordance with an approved records retention schedule. Most cities use the approved General Record Retention Schedule for Cities.<sup>1</sup> Cities and development authorities, including economic development authorities (EDAs), and housing and redevelopment authorities (HRAs), all generate and/or maintain tax increment financing (TIF) records. A city or authority may have many TIF districts, and TIF districts by their nature are in existence for a long time. Consequently, the number of TIF records generated and maintained can be very large -- so large that the cost of storing and maintaining the documents can become a financial consideration. The 2008 provisions of the General Records Retention Schedule for Cities represent a practical accommodation of the record management needs of TIF authorities, consistent with the accountability required by state law.<sup>2</sup>

The General Records Retention Schedule for Cities identifies audit reports, general ledgers, and minutes (including EDA and HRA minutes) as permanent records. The 2008 record retention provision divides TIF records into two categories:

- 1) Basic TIF records verifying the creation and governance of the district, including resolutions, agreements and certifications, must be kept for the life of the district plus 10 years.
- 2) Financial support records for the financial activity of the TIF district recorded in the permanent general ledger, including bills, invoices, receipts, vouchers, and cancelled checks, are required to be retained for 10 years after they are created. If financial support records meet certain criteria, their retention period can be reduced to six years.

The criteria the financial support records must meet to be eligible for the six-year retention period are that the records must be 1) subject to an annual audit, and 2) recorded in the ledger of the TIF authority. The ledger must contain the following information:

- Whether the expenditure was made to a parcel inside or outside the district;
- A description of the invoice submitted that ties the invoice to the qualifying activity; and
- Its development purpose, which must be tied to the budget of the TIF Plan.

If the ledger does not contain the information necessary to qualify the district for the six-year retention period, the financial support records must be retained for ten years after the date of their creation.
