Description of the Office of the State Auditor

The mission of the State Auditor's Office is to oversee local government finances for Minnesota taxpayers by helping to ensure financial integrity and accountability in local governmental financial activities.

Through financial, compliance, and special audits, the State Auditor oversees and ensures that local government funds are used for the purposes intended by law and that local governments hold themselves to the highest standards of financial accountability.

The State Auditor performs approximately 160 financial and compliance audits per year and has oversight responsibilities for over 3,300 local units of government throughout the state. The office currently maintains five divisions:

Audit Practice - conducts financial and legal compliance audits of local governments;

Government Information - collects and analyzes financial information for cities, towns, counties, and special districts;

Legal/Special Investigations - provides legal analysis and counsel to the Office and responds to outside inquiries about Minnesota local government law; as well as investigates allegations of misfeasance, malfeasance, and nonfeasance in local government;

Pension - monitors investment, financial, and actuarial reporting for approximately 730 public pension funds; and

Tax Increment Financing - promotes compliance and accountability in local governments' use of tax increment financing through financial and compliance audits.

The State Auditor serves on the State Executive Council, State Board of Investment, Land Exchange Board, Public Employees Retirement Association Board, Minnesota Housing Finance Agency, and the Rural Finance Authority Board.

Scope

This publication is intended to facilitate an understanding of county financial operations by citizens, policy makers and local government officials. The report summarizes, through data tables and charts, the financial operations of Minnesota counties for calendar year 2005. In addition, the report examines longer term trends to help place current financial conditions in context. This report also includes supplemental data showing 2006 and 2007 county budgets.

The data presented in this report is divided into governmental funds and proprietary funds. The governmental funds consist of the General, Special Revenue, Capital Projects, Permanent Funds, and Debt Service Funds. The financial operations of these funds are summarized in Table 1. Table 2 presents the data by each individual county. Appendix A lists factors that affect county finances.

The enterprise or proprietary funds of counties are presented separately from the governmental funds. Minnesota counties operate many types of public service enterprises. These enterprises furnish a variety of services that operate completely, or in large part, from revenues derived from the sale of goods or services. The financial operations of the municipal public service enterprises are presented in Tables 3 through 7. Footnotes used in the analysis of the enterprise operations are described at the end of the enterprise fund section.

Table 8 lists, by each individual county, the bonded and other long-term debt outstanding as of December 31, 2005. Other long-term debt refers to liabilities such as long-term lease agreements, installment purchase contracts, and notes.

Tables 9 and 10 present an analysis of the 2004 and 2005 unreserved fund balances in the General and Special Revenue Funds of counties. The tables show the actual unreserved fund balances, the percentage change in unreserved fund balances from 2004 to 2005, and a comparison to 2005 total current expenditures. Appendix B provides a more detailed discussion of fund balances.

In addition to the audited financial information, Tables 11 and 12 present 2006 and 2007 budget data. The budget data reflects unaudited budgeted revenues and expenditures reported by counties to the Office of the State Auditor. The budgeted data is not directly comparable to the audited financial data as actual revenues and expenditures may differ from what was budgeted. Also, because the data is self-reported, there may be classification differences between the sets of data.

The Office of the State Auditor also maintains an interactive database containing several years of data that can be accessed through its website. The database allows users to customize the presentation of data to their individual needs. For example, a citizen can select a group of counties to compare, and then choose the years and the categories of revenues and expenditures on which to compare them. The query can then be viewed on screen or saved to a file for downloading. Another online tools allow users to examine the per capital levels of revenues and expenditures for individual counties and see how they rank compared to other counties. The Office of the State Auditor's website address is www.auditor.state.mn.us.

Executive Summary

Current Trends

In aggregate, Minnesota county revenues grew 6.6 percent while expenditures grew 5.2 percent from 2004 to 2005. The revenue growth coupled with slower growth in expenditures allowed counties to increase unreserved fund balances by 5.2 percent. A measure of fiscal health, unreserved fund balances as a percent of current expenditures sits at its highest level in more than 10 years. The overall improvement in financial condition reverses a recent trend in which non-inflation adjusted revenues and expenditures declined.

Overall, county revenues totaled $4.76 billion, expenditures totaled $4.86 billion, and unreserved fund balances totaled $1.87 billion in 2005. The amount of outstanding long-term debt continued to increase and totaled $2.21 billion at the end of 2005.

In aggregate, county enterprises reduced their operating losses from $13.6 million in 2004 to $406,248 in 2005 but overall net income dropped from $32.7 million to $30.3 million. In essence, county enterprises came much closer to recouping their costs through charges but received less in non-operating revenues (transfers of tax and aid revenues) so profits were lower.

Ten Year Trends

While counties appear to have ended 2005 in good financial condition, an examination of trends between 1996 and 2005 shows some troubling trends. In particular, when adjusted for inflation, revenue and expenditure levels remain near 1998 levels. At the same time, counties have incurred greater amounts of debt.

When the ten year period is broken into two five-year segments, 1996 to 2000 and 2001 to 2005, a wide divergence in trends emerges. From 1996 to 2000, non-adjusted county revenues grew 24 percent compared to 10 percent between 2001 and 2005. Among the two major sources of county revenues, taxes and state aid, large differences are apparent. Taxes (primarily property) grew 19 percent during the first period and 17 percent during the second period while state aids grew 33 percent during the first five-year period but just 7 percent during the second period.

Among expenditures, the trends are similar. Total expenditures, which can be broken into current, capital, and debt service expenditures, grew 25 percent between 1996 and 2000, but only 11 percent between 2001 and 2005. Among the subcategories, current expenditures grew 25 percent during the first five-year period and 10 percent during the second period; capital outlays grew 26 percent during the first period and 14 percent during the second; and, debt service expenditures grew by 24 percent during the first five year period and by 28 percent during the second period.

Long-term debt grew 5 percent from 1996 to 2000, but jumped by 37 percent between 2001 and 2005. The growth in long term debt could indicate that counties have been funding a greater number of capital projects with debt rather than by pay-as-you-go.

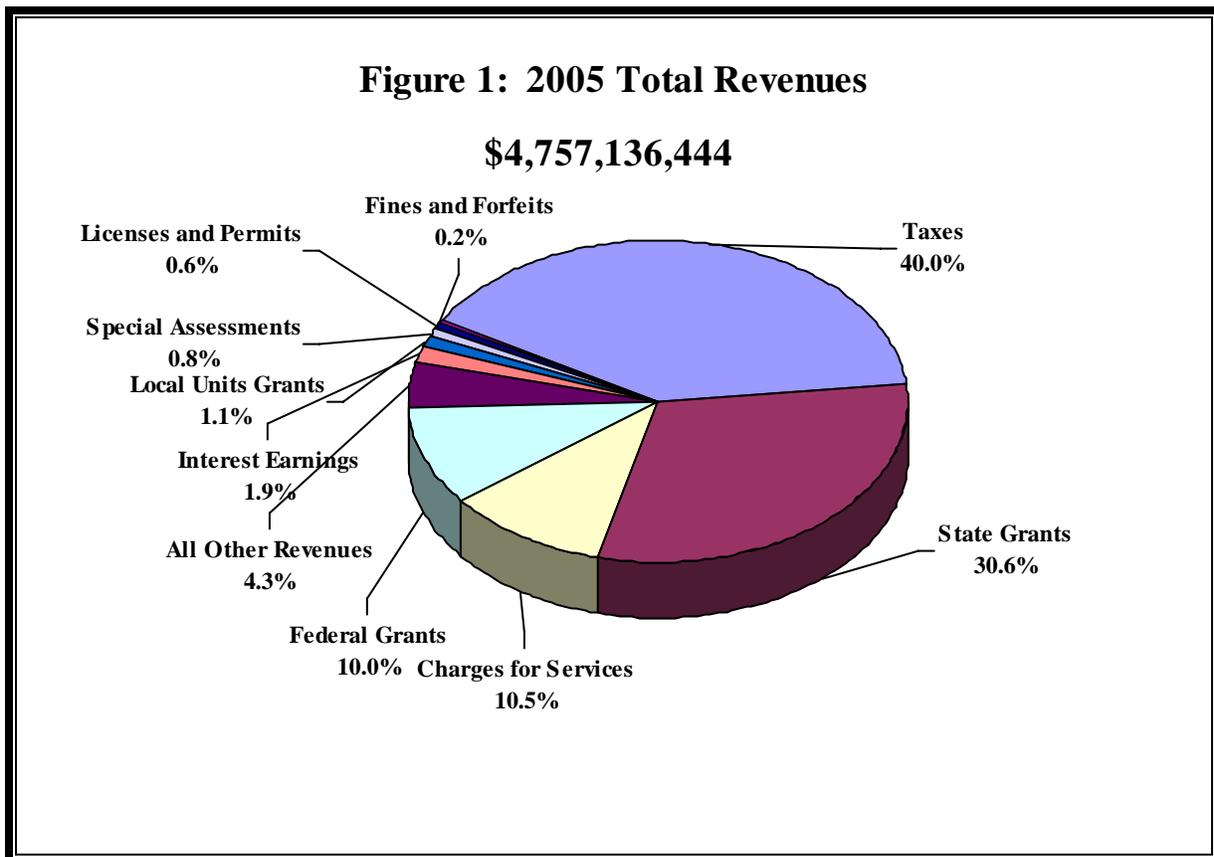

Total Governmental Revenues

Current Trends

Minnesota county revenues rebounded in 2005 after posting a decline in 2004. Total revenues for counties grew 6.6 percent to $4.76 billion between 2004 and 2005. However, when adjusted for inflation, county revenues were near 1999 levels.

The growth in revenue was driven primarily by increases in taxes, interest earnings, and federal grants. Taxes, which account for the largest proportion of county revenues, increased by $129.3 million or 7.3 percent between 2004 and 2005. Federal grants, which represent the fourth largest category of county revenues, increased $53.8 million or 12.7 percent from 2004 to 2005. Interest earnings are one of the most volatile sources of revenues for counties and have fluctuated greatly in recent years. Between 2004 and 2005 interest earnings from investments grew $27.9 million or 46.3 percent. While this was a large increase, revenue derived from interest earnings is down 40.9 percent from 2001.

The two largest sources of revenues for counties continue to be taxes and state intergovernmental revenues, which accounted for 40.0 and 30.6 percent of total revenues, respectively. Figure 1 shows the relative shares of total governmental revenues by source. The underlying data for this pie chart is detailed in Table 1.

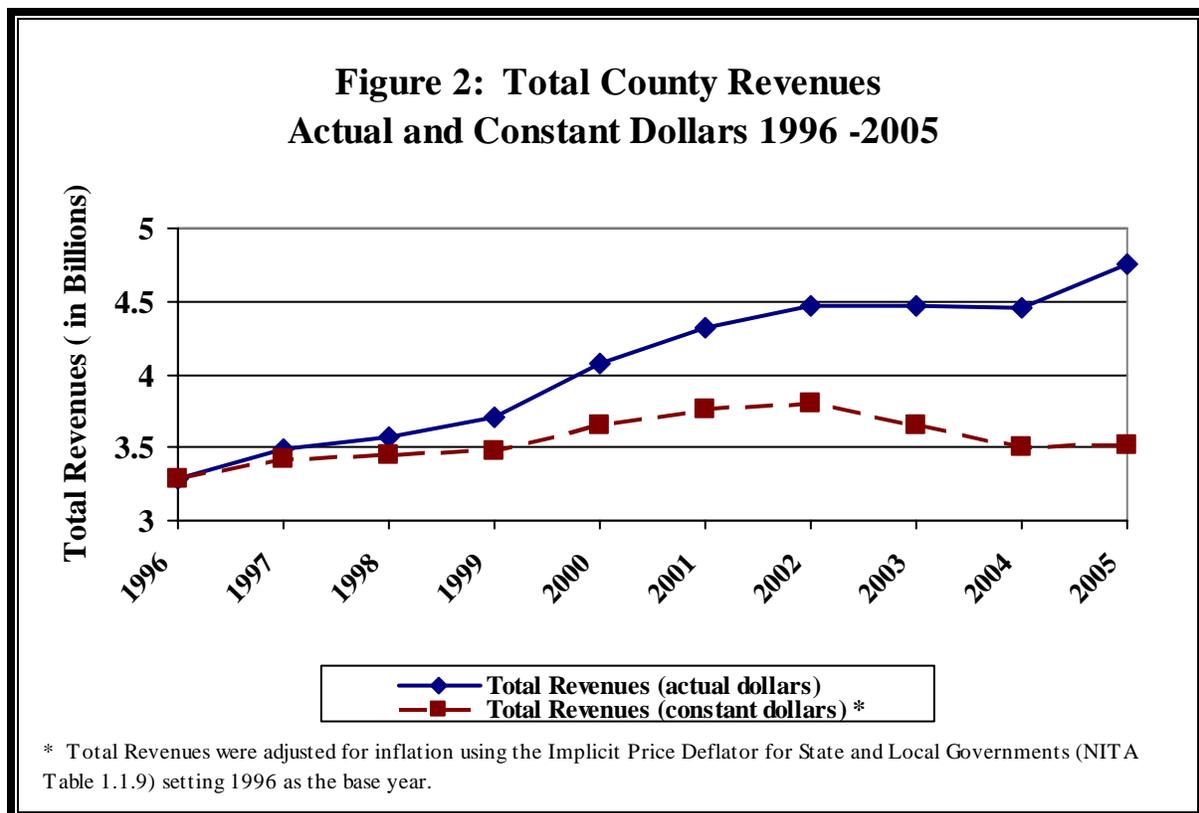

Ten Year Trends

Even in actual dollars, county revenues have been relatively flat since 2002. It appears that counties have responded to this through service reductions and funding more projects through the issuance of debt. As figure 2 shows, when adjusted for inflation, revenues declined in both 2003 and 2004 while increasing slightly in 2005.

An examination of county revenues between 1996 and 2005 shows that those revenue streams that are tied more closely to the beneficiaries of particular services have increased at a much greater pace than general revenues. During the ten year period, revenues derived from charges for services have risen 90 percent, those derived from licenses and permits have risen 105 percent, and those derived from special assessments have risen 65 percent. In contrast, revenues derived from taxes and state grants have each risen 49 percent, and those derived from federal sources have increased just 18 percent over this period.

When broken into two five-year segments, the 1996 to 2000 period shows more growth in revenue than the 2001 to 2005 period -- 24 percent to 10 percent respectively. The slow down in revenue growth primarily reflects actions taken by the governor and legislature to deal with the state's fiscal crises in 2002. As part of a package to address the large state deficit, aid to counties was significantly reduced in 2003 and 2004. In addition, the state imposed levy limits from 2002 to 2004 which restricted the amount of revenue the counties could collect in property taxes. To address the funding shortfalls caused by the state's actions, county reliance on other sources of revenues increased and service reductions were enacted. Table 1a on page 6 provides the underlying data for this analysis.

Primary Sources of Revenues

Since 1996, the primary sources of county revenues are taxes, state grants, federal grants, and charges for services. Over this period there has been some fluctuation in the proportion of total revenues represented by these four categories. Revenues derived from taxes now represent 40 percent of all county revenues – the highest level during the ten year period. Revenues derived from the state currently stand at 30.6 percent of all revenues. While not at its lowest point, this category has been trending downward since 2002. Revenue from charges for services has shown steady growth - rising from 8.0 percent of total revenues in 1996 to 10.5 percent in 2005. This growth has pushed federal grants down to the fourth largest source of county revenues.

Total Governmental Expenditures

Current Trends

Counties provide a variety of services to their citizens. Most services are accounted for in Governmental Funds. In 2005, Minnesota counties expended $4.86 billion from Governmental Funds to provide county services. This represents an increase of 5.2 percent over 2004 total governmental expenditures. Of the $4.86 billion in total governmental expenditures, $3.92 billion represented current expenditures (day-to-day operations), $716 million represented capital expenditures (construction or purchase of large assets such as buildings or roads), and $223 million represented debt service payments (interest and principal payments on debt). These three types of expenditures increased at roughly the same pace between 2004 and 2005, with current expenditures increasing 5.2 percent, capital outlay expenditures increasing 5.7 percent, and debt service expenditures increasing 5.1 percent.

Figure 4 shows the relative shares of total governmental expenditures by function. Each slice is a total of both the current and capital expenditures that fall within the functional area. Debt service is a stand alone category. The underlying data for this pie chart is detailed in Table 1.

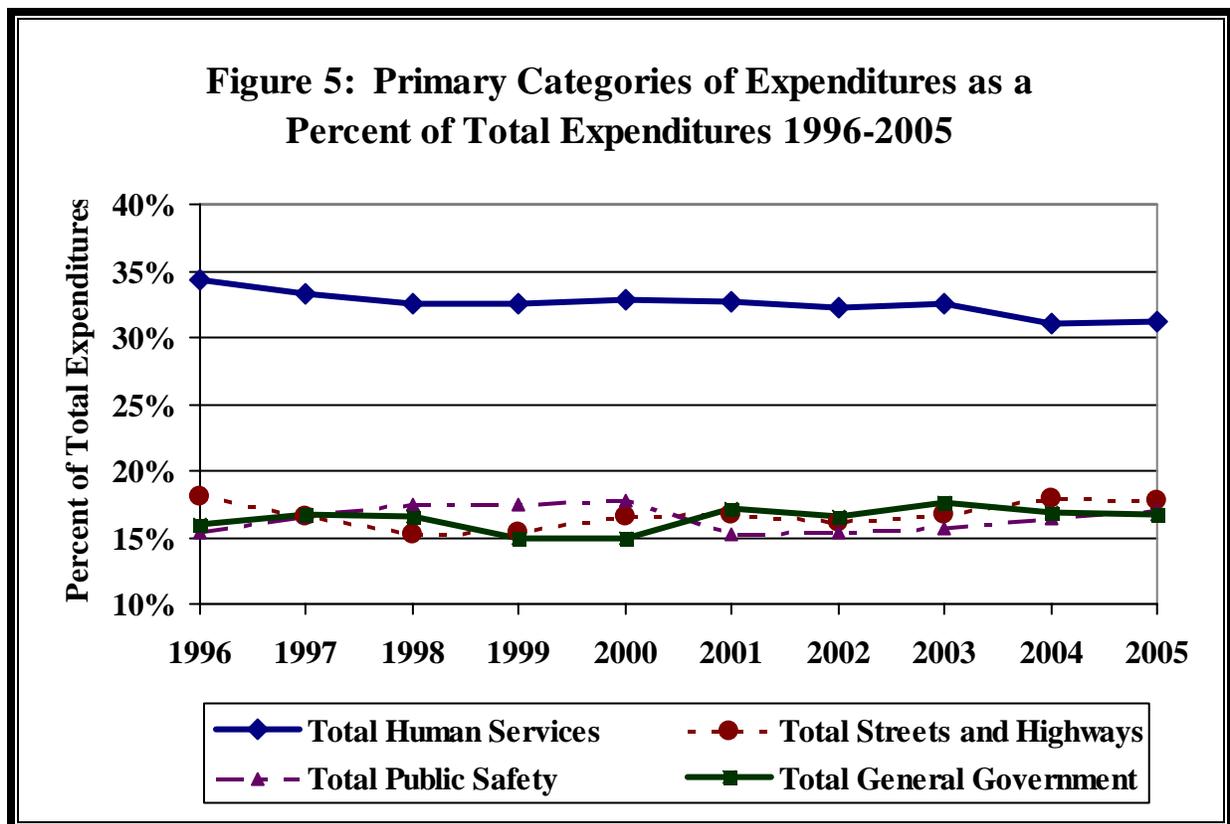

Ten Year Expenditure Trends

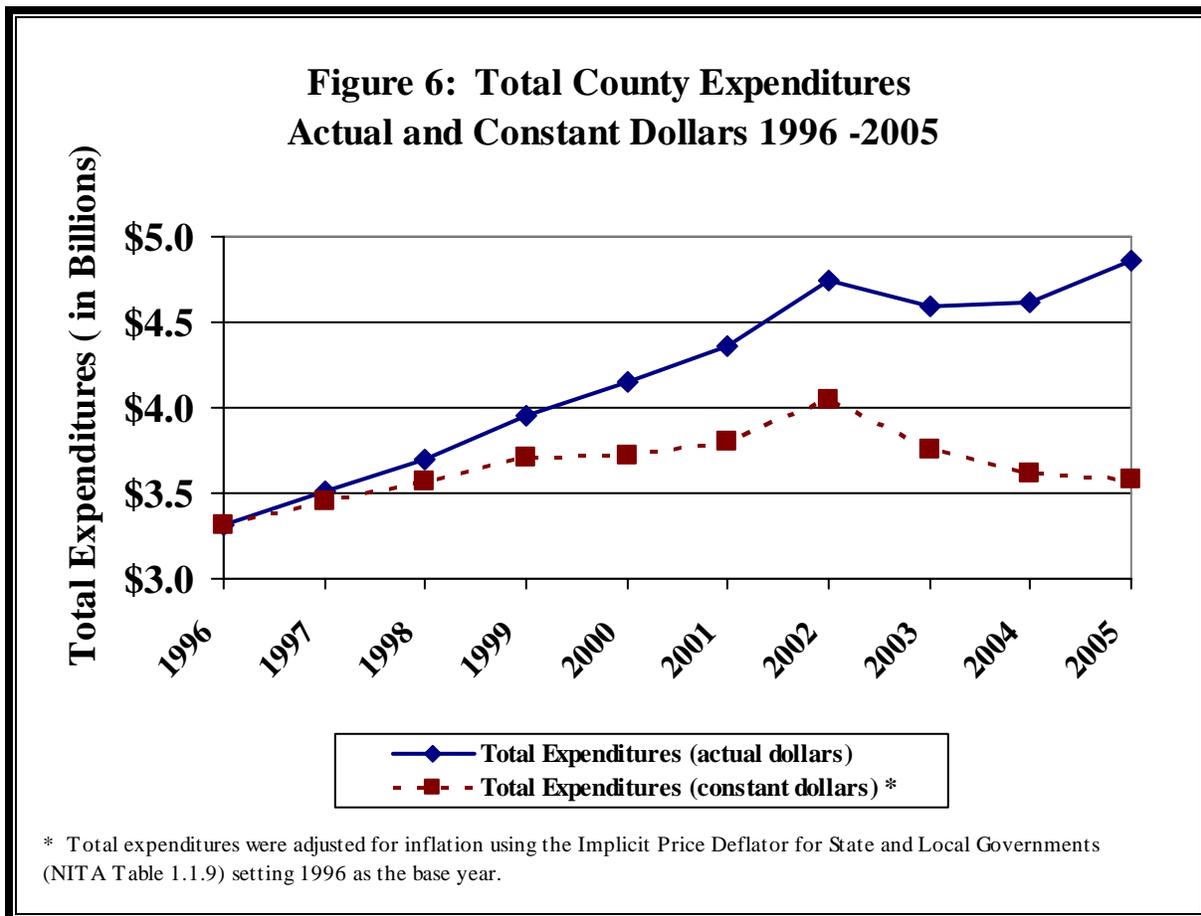

Over the past ten years, expenditures related to human services have dominated county spending. While this category of expenditure has remained the largest for counties, as a percent of total expenditures it has been trending downward. This downward trend reflects changes in human services programs both in how they are funded and stricter eligibility requirements. While counties pick up the administrative costs of human service programs, almost all the benefits are now paid by the federal and state governments. Stricter eligibility requirements have also meant fewer recipients of services.

In addition to the factors listed above, another reason that the human services share of total expenditures has declined is that spending on other county functions has risen much faster. While human service expenditures grew 33 percent between 1996 and 2005, the next three largest county functions grew much faster. During the ten year period, public safety spending grew by 61 percent, general government spending grew by 54 percent, and street and highway expenditures grew by 44 percent. As a result, these other categories represent a larger share of county spending relative to human services.

Each of the three functions listed above has held the spot as the second largest county expenditure during the ten-year period. Often the change in ranking is determined by the level of capital expenditures during a given period. Items such as jails, community centers, and large road projects can push one category above another for a period of time but then drop back down when the project is complete. Figure 5 examines this trend.

The spending trends during the period of 1996 to 2005 reflect those of the revenues. From the period of 1996 to 2002 there was fairly steady growth in expenditures. As the state's fiscal crises hit in 2002 and state aid cuts and levy limits were put in place, there was a real drop in available resources for counties. As a result, counties were forced to reduce staff and services. When adjusted for inflation, counties are now spending about what they did in 1998. Figure 6 below shows the slow down in expenditures since 2002.

If the ten year period is divided into two segments, 1996 to 2000 and 2001 to 2005, one sees a wide divergence in trends (see Table 2a on page 11). During the first period, county expenditures grew by 25 percent compared to 11 percent during the second period. When expenditures are broken out among current expenditures, capital outlays, and debt service, the trends are not the same. Current expenditures grew by 25 percent during the first period but by just 10 percent during the second period. Capital outlays grew by 26 percent during the first period and by 14 percent during the second period. Debt service payments increased 24 percent during the first period and an even higher 28 percent during the second period. The continued growth in debt service payments while the other categories significantly slowed reflects an increase in borrowing since 2000 (see figure 8 on page 12).

Capital Outlay Expenditures

Counties expended $716 million on capital outlays in 2005, representing an increase of 5.7 percent over the level expended in 2004 (see Table 1). Capital expenditures are more likely than current expenditures to vary significantly from year to year because capital projects tend to be large in size but infrequent in nature. Some of the factors that influence the level of capital investment include the need for infrastructure improvements, public safety concerns, demands for public meeting places and facilities, the need to replace aging infrastructure, and damage to public facilities caused by fire, floods, and storms.

As discussed previously, the trends in capital expenditures mirrored those of current expenditures except with a little more volatility. While both capital outlays and total current expenditures decreased between 2002 and 2003, capital expenditures increased in both 2004 and 2005. Current expenditures did not show an increase until 2005. It's possible that counties were able to increase spending on capital projects more quickly because they could borrow for these projects. Figure 7 shows the trend in capital outlays from 1996 to 2005. Table 2a on the following page summarizes the trends for all expenditures over the ten year period.

Outstanding Long-Term Indebtedness

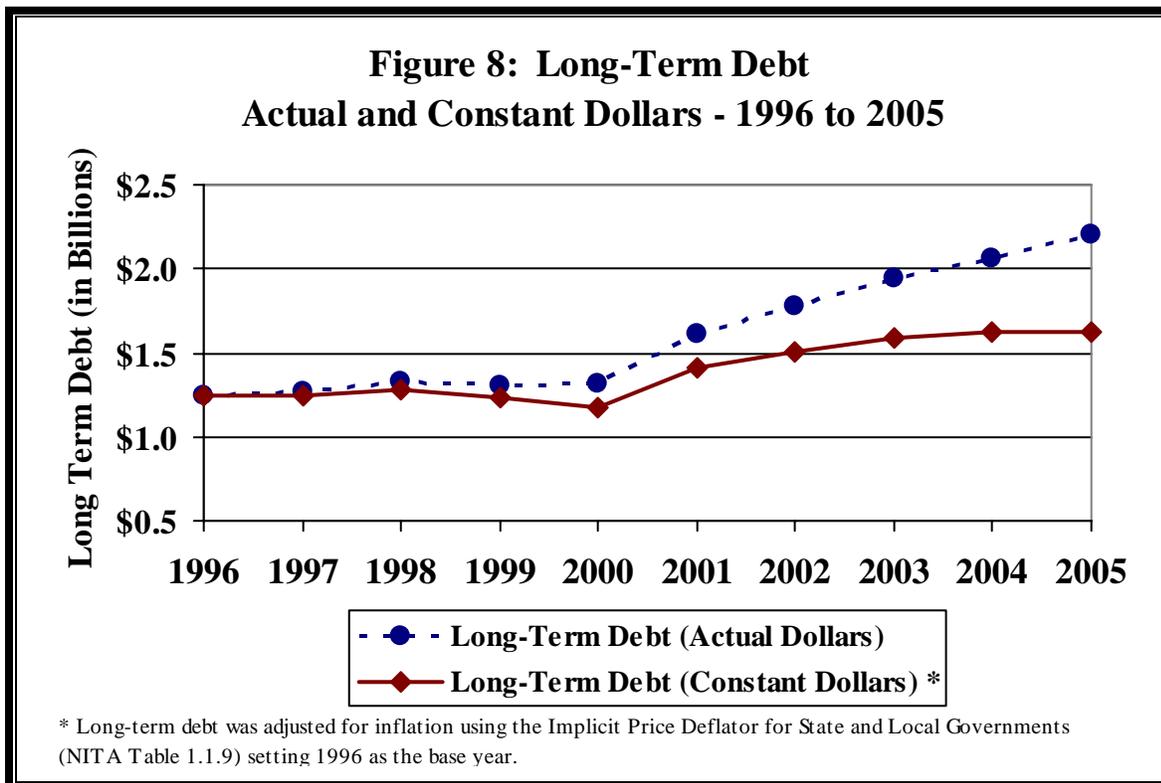

Current Trends

Counties reported a total of $2.2 billion in outstanding long-term debt at the end of 2005. This represents an increase in long-term debt of 6.8 percent over the year 2004. The long-term debt was divided between $2.0 billion in outstanding bonds and $202.8 million in other long-term debt. Counties incurred long-term debt to finance a wide range of capital projects such as road and bridge construction, light rail transit, government buildings, and other infrastructure improvements. Table 8 shows outstanding debt by county.

Counties incur long-term debt through the issuance of bonds and notes, certificates of indebtedness, and tax anticipation certificates. Long-term lease agreements are also classified as long-term debt. Counties may only borrow to finance capital projects and purchases because the law restricts them from borrowing for current expenditures. The amount of outstanding debt affects a county's expenditures because counties must make principal and interest payments to service the debt.

Ten Year Trends

Between 1996 and 2000 the level of borrowing was relatively flat increasing just 5 percent over the period. However, during the next five year period, the level of county indebtedness increased by 37 percent. This is one of the few categories of county finances that did not decrease during the fiscal crises of 2002. Counties that may have in the past used reserves to finance capital projects and purchases appear to have decided to borrow the funds instead.¹ This could have allowed them to use reserves to ease the fiscal crunch caused by cuts in state aid and levy limits. Figure 8 illustrates the increase in long term debt since 2000.

Public Service Enterprises

In addition to Governmental Funds, many counties establish Enterprise Funds to account for services that are financed and operated in a manner similar to private business enterprises. These enterprises are generally intended to be self-sustaining through fees and user charges.² Although some enterprises generate net income, most have the objective of breaking even. Accounting principals used in Enterprise Funds also provide more detailed financial information on

² Some enterprises that are not financially self-sustaining are seen as providing a benefit to the community as a whole. In these cases, counties may choose to provide a subsidy from other funds to support the activity. The Office of the State Auditor has issued a statement of position on enterprise fund accounting that can be found at: http://www.auditor.state.mn.us/other/Statements/enterprisefundaccounting_0705_statement.pdf operations where there are concerns in regard to issues such as public policy, accountability, and management control. The most common enterprises created by counties include hospitals, nursing homes, nursing services, and solid waste.

Current Trends

Public service enterprises provide goods or services for a charge. Most enterprises are designed to recoup the costs of providing the service through charges to the user. Many county enterprises, however, do not recoup all the costs of the service and need to supplement the operating revenues with transfers from other funds and non-operating revenues such as taxes and intergovernmental revenues. In 2005, the operating losses of county enterprises totaled $406,248 which was a considerable improvement over the operating loss of $13.6 million in 2004. The primary reason for the improvement was greater operating revenues (fees and charges) from a number of larger enterprises. While operating losses were significantly less, net income decreased. Net income for all county enterprises decreased from $32.7 million in 2004 to $30.0 million in 2005. The primary reason for the decrease in net income was a 12 percent reduction in non-operating revenues coupled with a 17 percent increase in non-operating costs. Non-operating revenues (taxes, federal and state grants, interest, etc.) decreased from $82.0 million in 2004 to $72.4 million in 2005. Non-operating expenses increased from $35.7 million in 2004 to $41.7 million in 2005.

Figure 9 illustrates the ten-year trend in the operating income and net income or loss of municipal enterprises. The gap between the operating income line and the net income line shows the amount that counties contributed in the form of non-operating revenues to county enterprises.

Unreserved Fund Balances of the General Fund and Special Revenue Funds

Counties maintain reserves for several reasons. The primary reason for these reserves is that property tax and state aid payments are not received until May/June. Because of this, sizeable year-end fund balances are necessary in order to meet expenditures occurring during the first five months of the following fiscal year. In addition, counties set aside reserves to provide a cushion for unforeseen revenue shortfalls or emergencies. Some counties also pay for capital projects by building up fund balances over a number of years so that they can limit or avoid bonding. The unreserved fund balances of counties' General and Special Revenue Funds totaled $1.86 billion in 2005.³ This represents an increase of 5.2 percent over the level in 2004.

Comparing counties' unreserved fund balances to their total current expenditures helps put the fund balances in perspective and provides insight on the relative financial health of Minnesota's counties. County unreserved fund balances as a percent of total current expenditures averaged 47.5 percent in 2005 (see Table 10). This is the highest level during the 1996 to 2005 period. Among individual counties, unreserved fund balances as a percent of total current expenditures ranged from 8.3 percent (Traverse County) to 171.8 percent (Blue Earth County).

The Office of the State Auditor recommends that counties maintain an unreserved fund balance in their general and special revenue funds of between 35 and 50 percent of fund operating revenues or no less than five months of operating expenditures (similar to current expenditures).⁴ From a financial condition standpoint, a very low fund balance is a greater concern than high fund balance. Counties should have policies regarding fund balances so that county officials and citizens can evaluate how fund balance levels conform to the county's stated policies.⁵

Ten Year Trend

Unreserved fund balances showed steady growth between 1996 and 2005. In no year was there an actual decline. Unreserved fund balances as a percent of total current expenditures have not shown the same trend. During periods when current expenditures grew at a faster pace than unreserved fund balances, the percentage declined. During the period of 2002 to 2005, declining and flat growth in current expenditures combined with rising fund balances caused unreserved fund balances as a percent of total current expenditures to rise. Figures 10 and 11 illustrate how these trends have interacted.

⁴ Due to data limitations, this analysis uses current expenditures as a proxy for operating expenditures.

FACTORS INFLUENCING COUNTY FINANCES

Appendix A

Factors Influencing County Finances

The finances of counties are affected by many different factors. Some of the variation results from decisions made by county officials, and some are due to factors outside the control of the elected officials such as state mandates, county size, economic status of residents, and the proximity of similar services provided elsewhere. The amount of revenue available may be influenced by changes in property values, the use of fee-based services, intergovernmental grants for projects, and other interrelated factors. Expenditures may be affected by the demographic, geographic, historical or political landscape of the county. One-time events such as floods, fires, and tornadoes that create demand for cleanup and reconstruction may cause expenditures to increase significantly for a year or more. Some factors have an on-going effect on county finances, while others might be one-time events.

A. Demographics

Population. Counties with higher populations face different challenges than smaller populated counties. Dealing with high traffic numbers imposes a greater cost depending on the burden carried by an area's highways. Higher population density is also associated with higher poverty and crime rates.

Population decline. Infrastructure costs do not decrease automatically when population decreases, and even if costs do remain the same; per capita spending will increase because the costs are distributed over a smaller population base.

Income. The average per capita income of a county's residents is related to a county's expenditure level in several ways. Per capita income is indirectly related to a county's ability to raise revenues. Where incomes are lower, property values may also be depressed, which reduces a county's tax capacity. Poverty rates, in turn, will be higher, thus creating greater demand for public services.

B. Geographic location

Different areas of the state often operate within quite different economic environments. The presence of one large business or industry can impact an entire region.

Certain regions of Minnesota may experience economic difficulties while other regions may prosper. Declines in industries or companies that dominate local economies may result in a higher level of need for public assistance. Trends in agriculture could result in lower property values and a decline in revenues for counties in regions where the economy is primarily based on agriculture. Counties located in these areas may have more difficulty raising revenues and also may face higher demands for public services.

C. Revenue sources

Tax Capacity Per Capita. The amount of money any individual or entity spends is directly related to the amount that is available to spend. Likewise, the costs of doing business are directly related to the amounts of revenue that can be generated to meet the costs. The greater the amount and types of revenue available to a county, the more it will spend. The more it costs to provide services in a county, the more funds the county will need to raise.

Enterprise Funds. The per capita tables do not reflect expenditures accounted for in enterprise funds. The most common enterprise funds provide sanitation, hospital, nursing home, and nursing services. Other enterprises include recreation facilities, housing, and economic development. Counties that offer these services and account for them in the General Fund or Special Revenue Funds will show higher per capita expenditures in the per capita tables than those that provide the services through enterprise funds.

D. Shared services, joint powers agreements

A significant practice among counties is the sharing of services and the use of joint powers agreements to provide necessary services. "Joint exercise of powers" is defined in Minnesota Statutes, section 471.59. Such arrangements allow counties to provide services jointly with other counties and thus pool their resources.

Shared service arrangements are not necessarily formal; some counties provide services to other jurisdictions on an informal basis. The importance of shared services and joint powers agreements on this per capita analysis of county expenditures relates to the population figure used to determine the per capita rates. If a county of 10,000 provides services to neighboring cities or counties with populations totaling 5,000, the size of the population served is actually 15,000. If the county providing the service does not reduce its expenditures by the amount spent providing the service to the other jurisdictions, the calculated per capita rate will be too high. This result occurs because the calculation for the per capita rate uses the population of the county providing the service and not the combined population of all jurisdictions served.

The Office of the State Auditor does not collect information on joint powers agreements such that it would enable us to divide every expenditure by the actual recipient population figure. It is imperative, therefore, that in those instances where one county's expenditures appear higher than the average, the reader exercise caution in interpreting the numbers and investigate further into the possible sharing of services and/or the use of joint powers.

E. Proximity to county, regional, or state-run programs/facilities

If your neighbor has a pool and they are willing to let you use it, you probably won't install one of your own. Counties are subject to the same effect of proximity. Similarly, counties located close to a regional or state park may opt not to develop or expand their own park program.

The degree of isolation experienced by a community, whether geographic or technological (e.g., lack of advanced telecommunications capability), can also affect service needs and costs. Counties that are remote from other communities may not have the opportunity to participate in joint powers arrangements or have access to urban amenities, and thus may need to provide a wider range of services out of their own budgets.

F. Source of labor

The extent to which a county depends upon other than full-time, salaried employees will affect the levels of expenditures. The following types of arrangements can reduce the full-time complement of staff: extensive use of part-time employees, significant reliance on volunteers, and use of contracts for specific projects or general services. Besides lower wages to part-time employees, an important reduction in costs created through these types of arrangements is in the area of fringe benefits, which are not generally paid either to part-time employees, volunteers, or individuals hired on a contract basis.

Some employee arrangements may increase, rather than reduce costs. Some counties' expenditures are affected by the extensive unionization of their work force. Because of the role of the unions, salary costs may be more difficult to control for these counties.

G. Other factors

The effects of weather and natural disasters can significantly affect the expenditures for certain services over a period of time. Counties affected by natural disasters, such as floods, may have higher public safety, streets and highways, and infrastructure costs. There are many other incidental factors not included in this list. Explanations of differences in county expenditures should be pursued with county officials to better understand each county's per capita expenditures.

Appendix B

County General and Special Revenue Unreserved Fund Balances

Minnesota counties report their fund balances at the close of their fiscal year, which ends December 31. This creates an impression that counties have excessive amounts of revenue held in reserve. In reality, county fund balances should be relatively large at the end of the year because of local government cash-flow cycles. Counties must rely on their fund balances to meet expenses during the first five months of the next fiscal year, until they receive the first property tax payments (May) and aid payments from the state (July).

Unlike state government, which collects income tax withholding and sales tax receipts regularly throughout the year, many counties do not have a constant flow of revenue from which they are able to fund local government operations. Property tax levies, state aid, and property tax credits comprise the majority of county discretionary revenues. Minnesota laws govern the flow of these major revenue sources into county treasuries.

- Counties receive the first half of property taxes from property owners by May 15 of each year.
- Counties receive the first half of their state aid and property tax credits from the state on July 20 of each year.
- Counties receive the second half of property taxes from property owners by October 15 of each year.
- Counties receive the second half of their state aid and property tax credits from the state on December 26 of each year.

Given this state-controlled flow of revenue, county fund balances (which are measured on December 31) are the primary source of funds available to counties for their operating expenses during the first five months of the next fiscal year. An adequate fund balance will provide counties with the cash flow required to finance expenditures and avoid short-term borrowing.

Unique Circumstances of Each County Determine the Size of Fund Balance

While counties must rely on the fund balances for cash flow purposes during the first five months of a year, the unique circumstances of each county will determine the size of a fund balance that must be maintained to avoid the need for short-term borrowing and to operate effectively.

Numerous factors must be considered when determining the level of reserves necessary to avoid short-term borrowing.

- If counties receive relatively large amounts of revenue from sources such as fees, fines, charges for services, other intergovernmental grants and aids, or interest on investments during the first five months of the calendar year, then they will be less dependent on their fund balances for cash flow purposes.
- Counties are often able to delay certain purchases until after the initial property tax and state aid payments are received. While payments for employee salaries, wages, and most benefits cannot be delayed during the first five months of the year, purchases of supplies and capital equipment may be delayed.

The individual cash flow needs of a county will determine the minimum fund balance that is necessary for it to operate effectively. Counties may need less reserves in their General and Special Revenue Funds if they have unreserved fund balances in other governmental or proprietary funds from which they may borrow or transfer resources, or if they receive significant revenues from sources other than property taxes and state aid payments (i.e. charges for services). Conversely, counties that rely heavily on property taxes and state aid for the majority of their revenues will need relatively large fund balances to meet their cash flow needs from January 1 through June 1 of every calendar year.

Glossary

BORROWING - These revenues reflect the sale of bonds and notes, certificates of indebtedness, and tax anticipation certificates. Counties are restricted by law from borrowing for current expenses.

CAPITAL OUTLAY - These expenditures include the purchase, construction, or permanent improvements of buildings, equipment, machinery, and land. Capital outlay varies from year to year based on the needs and resources of the counties.

CAPITAL PROJECTS FUND - A fund created to account for the financial resources that are used for the acquisition or construction of a fixed asset.

CHARGES FOR SERVICES - These revenues represent user charges paid in exchange for a service, exclusive of revenues from proprietary funds. Examples include sanitation charges, golf fees, court costs, and public safety contracts.

DEBT SERVICE EXPENDITURES - These expenditures reflect the annual costs of servicing the outstanding debt of the local government. These costs include principal, interest, and some fiscal charges.

DEBT SERVICE FUND - A fund to account for the collection of resources designated to pay the interest, fiscal charges, and principal on long-term debt.

ENTERPRISE FUND - A fund established to account for operations financed and operated in a manner similar to private business. Examples include water, sewer, and electric utilities. The expenses of providing services are primarily financed by user charges.

FINES AND FORFEITS - These revenues reflect receipts from the payment of penalties for law violations, non-observance of contracts, and forfeited deposits.

FRANCHISE TAXES - These revenues reflect proceeds from taxes imposed on public utilities, usually involving elements of a monopoly, (e.g., electric utilities, gas utilities, cable TV) for use of public property.

GENERAL FUND - The fund used to account for all financial resources not required to be accounted for in another fund. This fund is the main operating fund.

GENERAL GOVERNMENT EXPENDITURES - These expenditures reflect the costs associated with local government functions, such as administration, finance, and elections. Expenditures in this category include salaries, wages, and benefits of legislative, judicial, and administrative personnel, in addition to supplies and building maintenance.

GOVERNMENTAL FUNDS - The funds through which most governmental activities are financed. The four governmental fund types are: General, Special Revenue, Debt Service, and Capital Projects.

GRAVEL TAX - These revenues are derived from taxes imposed by the local government for aggregate material removal.

HEALTH - These expenditures are for the maintenance of vital statistics, restaurant inspection, communicable disease control, and various health services and clinics.

Glossary

HRA AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT - These expenditures are for development and redevelopment activities in blighted or otherwise economically disadvantaged areas. Activities may include low-interest loans to individuals and businesses, cleanup of hazardous sites, rehabilitation of substandard housing and other physical facilities, and other assistance to those wanting to provide housing and economic opportunity within a disadvantaged area.

HUMAN SERVICES - These expenditures are for activities designed to provide public assistance and institutional care for individuals economically unable to provide essential needs for themselves.
